Man Lost at Sea Off Liner Berengaria

Member of Crew Falls Overboard While Working on Lifeboat; Is Not Found Despite 2 Hours' Search

Lee De Forest Returns

Inventor Says He Has Perfected Device for Making Talking Motion Pictures

The Berengaria of the Cunard Line, from Southampton and Cherbourg, docked last afternoon, bringing 2,156 passengers and word of the loss of one of the members of the crew at sea on September 19. According to Captain W. R. D. Irvine, commander of the liner, the man was Stanley Metcalf, third class waiter, of Manchester, England.

The accident occurred last Tuesday afternoon when Metcalf, who was making fast a boat cover on the starboard side of the boat deck, lost his balance and fell overboard. The ship was stopped immediately and life preservers cast toward the spot where he had disappeared, but for an hour and three-quarters and then proceeded to New York.

One of the returning passengers was Lee De Forest, wireless and radio inventor, who brought back his latest endeavor in photographic motion picture. Mr. De Forest said that after two years of research work in Berlin he had perfected this device, at the point where it has passed the laboratory stage and was ready for work in the studio.

Describing his invention, he said that the voices were recorded at the same time the pictures were being taken, on a tiny strip of specialized negative, which runs parallel to the film used in taking the pictures, by means of an audio amplifier. The two strips of film are exactly synchronized, and the reproduction of the voices when the pictures are being shown is accomplished by reversing the original process. As the pictures are reeled off a ray of light plays on the vocal film, which runs parallel to the picture film, they were recorded, by the audio amplifier.

Mr. Lethbridge, head of Spratt's, Ltd., with his wife and daughter, arrived for a tour of the country. Mr. Lethbridge has visited here before, but Mrs. Lethbridge, on her first trip, said she came to see America and would travel extensively through the United States and Canada.

An unusual record was made by the 150 customs inspectors, when, together with the eight men taking off the baggage, they concluded their work in three hours, beginning at 3:30 p. m. and finishing at 6:30 p. m.

Camera to Test Einstein Theory in Eclipse To-day

Einstein's theory of relativity will be put to the test by photographs taken to-day, during an eclipse of the sun visible in the South Pacific. So great is the importance attached to the revelations of the camera as concerning the Einstein theory, that eight governments have sent astronomical parties to the South Seas, some on islands, and some in the desert regions of Australia, where there is likely to be a clear sky.

If Einstein's theory be true, that light from a star passing by the sun would be deflected from its course, and the stars would show a greater relative distance between the sun and the stars, than the distance known to astronomers to be mathematically correct. Such photographs can be taken only during an eclipse.

A British expedition to the coast of Brazil in 1919 obtained one photograph, which seemed to verify the Einstein theory in this particular, hence the great interest manifested by the scientists of the world in the tests to-day.

The nearest point to the eclipse, whence photographs may be taken, is Christchurch, in the south of New Zealand, which has been occupied by British, German and Dutch expeditions. The party from the Lick Observatory, California, is on the west coast of Australia, while Australian scientists traveled five weeks by camel train into the interior of Australia, in order to be sure of cloudless weather.

Familiar Figure in Paris and London; Often Host to Distinguished Visitors

William Payne Thompson, of Westbury, L. I., died yesterday in the Presbyterian Hospital following an illness of three weeks.

The news of Mr. Thompson's death caused grief throughout a wide circle that knew him as a man of many and diverse interests, with an extraordinary grasp of world affairs and a keen interest in nearly all forms of sport. He was a possessor of great wealth; he was widely traveled and almost as familiar a figure in London and Paris as in New York City.

For many years the home of the Thompsons, Westbury Hills, near Westbury, has been a center of social affairs in Long Island. When Mr. and Mrs. Thompson have been in residence there it has sheltered distinguished visitors from all parts of America and Europe.

Suffers Sudden Relapse
Information as to the cause of Mr. Thompson's illness was not available last night. Mr. Thompson, who was Miss Edith Blight, daughter of Archer Thompson, of Newport, is said to have been with her husband when he died. Information obtained from the residence of Westbury Hills was that Mr. Thompson's illness, while severe, had not been expected to terminate fatally. He was taken to the hospital two weeks ago, and yesterday it was thought that his condition was improving. The end came after a sudden relapse.

Mr. Thompson was born in Petersburg, Va., September 8, 1872, the son of William P. and Mary Evelyn Moffatt Thompson. He was educated in the Lawrenceville School, Lawrenceville, N. J., and matriculated at Harvard, but was prevented from taking his degree in 1895 by illness during his third year. After effects of this attack persisted over a long period, because of ill health, Mr. Thompson was compelled to abstain from active business. Later he became interested in the mining industry and established mining connections, which he is believed to have retained up to his death.

Expert With Rod and Rifle

Mr. Thompson was an ardent sportsman, an expert in the use of rod and rifle. He was one of the best known fly casters in America and his fame as an angler extended to English and Scottish waters.

Mr. Thompson was a member of the Knickerbocker Club, the Polo and Tennis Club, the Brook, Piping Rock, Westminister Kennel, Turf and Field and Meadow Brook clubs.
